Aix Scientifics® is an independent Contract Research Organisation (CRO) with long-term experience in clinical research for new pharmaceutical products and medical devices. Clinical trials are planned, conducted and evaluated in accordance with the legal framework, national and international guidelines, and internal SOPs.

Most clients are rather small medical device companies that need to perform animal trials and/or clinical studies to place their first product(s) on the market. With technical comprehension and some surgical and clinical experiences we support the clinical and pre-clinical research of our clients.
